Business Challenge

As Sarah got her real estate career underway, she came to a very important conclusion: she needed a professional website. Sarah was looking for something simple yet robust to cover her bases and have the capability to grow in the future if she needed. Sarah also needed something reliable, easy to use, and informative, with useful functions such as a contact form, featured properties, and a mortgage calculator.

Our Solution

Working with Sarah, we determined the basic layout, color scheme, and feel of the site she was going for. From there, we planned to build her website on a device-responsive platform that would make the site accessible to the market both at a desktop or on a mobile device. We located the necessary plugins to give her the website capabilities she was looking for and would install those and set them up so her site could provide extra services to visitors like calculating mortgage.
